L. H. LEWIS EDITOR

A fine tribute was that which the citizens of Ludlow paid to Joe Sault the retiring editor of the Tribune of that place when they held a public reception, said many good things about him, his sixteen years of arduous editorial labors and presented him with a substantial purse of gold. Surely the saying that "a prophet is not without honor save his own country" does not hold good with the people of Ludlow.

Morrisville did itself proud in its Armistice Day observations. The entire program was a most impressive one. An interesting feature was the large number of scholars from People's Academy in the parade—fully 300 in line. They marched with military precision and "kept step to the music of the union." It will doubtless be a pleasure to those boys and girls in after years to tell about the part they had in that memorable parade.

The Bellows Falls Times pokes a little fun at the Woman's club, including the one in its own town, which sent telegrams to Vermont congressmen urging the passage of the Sheppard-Towner maternity bill which, on being studied, appears to be about the last thing American mothers would want enacted into a law. The Times quotes Rev. A. Z. Conard of the Park Street church, Boston, who was the preacher in the Old Rockingham meeting house at the last pilgrimage and recently referred to the bill as an idea imported from foreign countries and supported by propaganda. As a law, it would lead to the nationalization of the home and mean the handing over to unmarried women the responsibilities of the married women of the country. The Times ends by saying that "probably all the Bellows Falls women who favored the bill had read it." "Probably," in that connection, condenses a whole column in one word.—Springfield Reporter.

Costa Rica a Farming Country.

Nearly every adult male in Costa Rica is a landholder. The republic is essentially an agricultural country. Under a carefully planned system the government allots lands to applicants on advantageous terms. This plan is largely responsible for the country's efficiency in agriculture. The banana is the most profitable crop. Millions of bunches are exported annually. Coffee is the next important crop. Costa Rican coffee is of excellent quality and is in demand in all markets. Sugar, cacao, rice and corn are grown, but only for local consumption. Stock raising and lumbering are carried on. The quantity of lumber is being increased each year. Among the minerals are silver, gold and copper, which are exported in considerable quantities.

Wear Wealth on Their Hair.

The most remarkable features of Mongol costumes are the hair ornaments and headresses of the women. Even a poor girl, once she marries, wears a profusion of silver ornaments on her head, says Adam Warwick in National Geographic Magazine. The precise nature and shape of these varies with the tribes. One at least has a most ludicrous coiffure for its matrons, which projects so high that the cap, imperatively demanded by etiquette, is tied on above the ornaments quite clear of the head. Others adopt

Laing, Sup't of the Vermont Anti-Saloon League, will occupy the pulpit of the Cong'l church next Sunday morning, and give an interesting account, that should be of importance to all citizens, regarding the difficulties and the progress made and to be made, in the enforcement of prohibition legislation.

McFarland-Haynes

(From the DeLand, Florida, News)

Miss Delta Chastain Haynes and Mr. Brigham McFarland were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Haynes, on Howry Ave. at 2.15 Thursday afternoon, with only relatives and members of the family present.

The living rooms were artistically decorated with baskets of white chrysanthemums and asparagus fern.

The double ring service was used, Rev. Lawrence Radcliffe performing the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, Mr. W. D. Haynes, is a charming brunette and never looked more lovely than in her bridal robes of pussy-willow taffeta draped with Dutchess lace while her wedding veil was caught up with real orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a diamond bar pin set in platinum, a present of the groom. Miss Catherine Haynes, sister of the bride was maid of honor and was becomingly gowned in a white embroidered French organdie gown. Mr. Tom B. Stewart was best man.

Miss Edna Stenwall sang very sweetly, "At Dawning," by Cadman and Miss Olive Kruse rendered the wedding march from Lohengrin.

The old family servants looking in at the windows reminded one of the old Southern days and the weddings of the past.

Following the ceremony refreshments of ice-cream and angel food cake were served, after which Mr. and Mrs. McFarland left for various points in the North and East.

Mrs. McFarland is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Haynes of this city and is beloved by all for her sweet womanly qualities and her ability in the business world. She numbered her friends by her acquaintances and was an acknowledged leader in University and City circles. She graduated from Stetson University with full honors and was a member of the Phi Beta Phi ball players on the Stetson girls' sorority and one of the best basketball-champion teams.

Mr. McFarland is a prominent business man of Hyde Park, Vt., and has many friends in that town who will welcome his bride.

Dana Reynolds a Suicide

Dana Reynolds, aged 73 years, who resided at the home of his daughter, Mrs. O. L. Salls, in Garfield, shot himself Friday night while in a fit of despondency. Mr. Reynolds calling for his 25 calibre rifle, stating that he was going to sell it and wished to give it a good cleaning. Before handing it to him the gun was examined, to make sure it was empty, but evidently he had planned the deed and had ammunition in his room for in a few minutes the report of the gun was heard, and it was found that the bullet had passed through his heart. Mr. Reynolds had been in poor health for a long period.

The deceased is survived by his wife, and three daughters, Mrs. O. L. Salls, Mrs. Fred Perry of Garfield and Mrs. Pay of Vermontville, N. Y., besides several grandchildren, to whom deep sympathy is extended.
